

Gold, Platinum and Silica

Gold is a very important healing substance, which has been used since the Ancient Egyptians. It has been used by most systems of medicine and healing for a wide range of conditions. It is in fact a trace element which is important for building the brain, the heart, the nervous and immune systems. If you place gold leaf on your tongue, it just disappears - the body dissolves it (contrary to normal chemistry) and absorbs it. In fact, gold is a recognised food supplement in US and EU law. For example it can be used to decorate cakes, and is in a Swiss liquor.

My system of spiritual healing is really a system of nutrition. The food chain is normally seen as a supply of chemicals to your body. But that is only part of the story. In fact there is also a flow of energies (living information) from the sun. My remedies supply energies (vibrations/patterns) you don't normally get in your diet. So I have always been interested in nutrition.

The big breakthroughs came when I was studying lyme (to cure myself of it). Lyme steals your gold, and uses it for its own nefarious purposes. By taking gold from the core of your being, it causes your body to start to break down, and the immune system to collapse.

It was whilst investigating this that I discovered that remedies which had nothing to do with gold, would nevertheless stimulate the absorption of gold if they had love in them. I found that if I took colloidal gold with such remedies, it made them more physical and effective.

Gold is the perfect substance for bringing together love and spirit and matter - the three things from which you are made. That is why it is such an important trace element. If you also take remedies with love and spirit in them with the gold, then you start to regenerate the body anew. And the immune system is powerfully boosted.

Having an enquiring mind, I wondered what other trace minerals my remedies would want to absorb. I found that my LEAP remedies (see below) stimulate the absorption of platinum, which helps unify the etheric and physical bodies. I also found that other spiritual remedies stimulate the absorption of silica, which helps bring more life force into the body. More about this below.

Lyme Disease

The way Lyme disease steals your gold is devastating, for it affects so many different aspects of your existence in your body. If you take gold by itself, you risk just feeding the lyme. Nor does it guarantee that the different parts of your body absorb the gold properly. Furthermore, your spirit coming into your body has to be taught to look for and connect with the particles of gold, so as to control them and build your body properly. I have remedies which do this, and included them in earlier versions of the treatment. However, I discovered other remedies to do this.

We are made from three things: love, spirit and adamantine particles, which are the source particles of matter (ie sub-quarks). I have remedies which contain love, spirit and adamantine particles. I call these "triune energy" remedies. This is a kind of low-level Christ energy, which is the energy of existence. I found that some of these triune energy remedies were effective against lyme. However, they contain love and so are doubly effective when one takes colloidal gold with them, because their love stimulates the absorption of gold, which grounds them.

Gold is the perfect substance for bringing love and spirit into material levels of the body. In effect it acts like adamantine particles at the atomic level. So the Lyme treatment has remedies specifically to absorb and better control the gold particles (and others to push out mercury, which is a big problem in Lyme) There are also trione energy remedies throughout the treatment, which further stimulate the absorption of gold. So it is very important to take colloidal gold with the treatment. However, don't take gold if you are allergic to it.

Platinum

One of the big breakthroughs in treating the Lyme, was when I found out how to get it out of etheric matter. There are two different types of matter, normal matter and etheric matter (which is probably the same as dark matter found by astronomers). Etheric matter is found in the physical body, and is the foundation of the physical body. It is the place where the life force comes in.

The problem is that there are two different types of Lyme: normal Lyme and etheric Lyme. Normal Lyme is the spirochaete. Etheric Lyme exists in the etheric matter. When you take antibiotics, you kill off the spirochaete and the Lyme retreats into the etheric matter. Orthodox science cannot detect the etheric form of it (yet) and so they claim the Lyme has gone. But it has not. It just hides in the etheric matter until it is safe to come back, and then it often comes back even more strongly. The way Lyme does this is by stealing your etheric adamantine particles, which undermines the foundations of your physical body!

The breakthrough came when I discovered how to use love to pull back your adamantine particles from the Lyme. The remedies which do this I call LEAP remedies. The LEAP remedies drive it nuts because they attack the Lyme in the etheric matter, and force it to either dematerialise completely, or move back into normal matter, where the spirochaetes face your normal immune system.

The other breakthrough was when I found that LEAP remedies stimulate the absorption of particles of platinum. Platinum is the bridge between etheric and normal matter, and helps bind the two together more strongly. When you take colloidal platinum with the LEAP remedies, it makes them even more powerful against the Lyme. This was real progress. However, don't take platinum if you are allergic to it.

Silica

Quartz is made of silica, and it is found in sand and in rocks, so it is very widespread on the earth. Silica helps bring life force into the earth. Silica is in the body in cell salts, it helps maintain collagen and is important for the bones. It helps bring life force into your body, especially into your will and joints. It is thus important in fighting Lyme.

Another breakthrough came when I found that some of my spiritual remedies (which bring in the life force) stimulate the absorption of colloidal silica, and if you take colloidal silica with them, they are much more powerful.

Silica is widespread in the soil (unlike gold and platinum), and so is often in the diet. However, the modern obsession with cleanliness means that most of the dirt and grit is washed out of our food. It also used to be in the flour from mill stones. Maybe this is why our ancestors had more grit. However, there is still some silica in our food, and so you may not need colloidal silica. But the amount in your food may vary from day to day, and the particle size may not be right. So if you are taking a treatment which requires colloidal gold and platinum, and the colloidal silica is optional (eg EBV treatment), it is often worth getting it - it only costs a bit more. However, don't take silica if you are allergic to it.

Colloidal Gold, Platinum and Silica

I strongly recommend that people supplement the Lyme treatment with colloidal gold platinum and silica (for EBV see below). I make the energy remedies, but not the colloids. A good manufacturer in the US is:

www.purestcolloids.com

If you live in the USA, it is more cost effective to get them directly from the manufacturer, although I can supply them if you require. Either way, you must get them because they are an essential part of the Lyme treatment. If you live in another country, contact me.

Warning

If you want to get another brand, then you need to know that there are two different types of "colloidal gold", real colloidal gold and false or chemical "colloidal gold", which is toxic:

1. The toxic type is made by dissolving a gold salt (eg gold chloride) in water. It is cheap and easy to make, but it is toxic and there do not appear to be any regulations to stop it. It is often described as "ionic gold" and the contents may be "AuCl").
2. Real colloidal gold is tiny (nano) particles of gold metal in pure water, and is usually made electrically. Purest Colloids do it this way.

EBV

At some stage when I was researching all of this, I was infected with EBV again. Rather than treat it with the standard treatment I had at that time, I did some testing and found that some of the remedies I used against Lyme also had anti-EBV properties. I found that some of the triune energy remedies and LEAP remedies were quite effective against EBV, even though they were not specific for it. To understand why this might be, we need to consider the nature of EBV in more detail.

EBV is a virus which causes mononucleosis (called glandular fever in the UK), which is like a heavy cold, sometimes with debilitating fatigue. Most people "recover", which means that they still have the virus, but it has slipped in and become chronic. (Confusingly the medical profession often describe this state as a "past infection", when in fact it is a current chronic one, and can play up at any time.)

Up to 90% of the adult population in Western countries have this chronic form of EBV, and it is usually hidden away and does not cause any problems. However, a few percent of the population do have problems, and often there is a trigger which starts them. The trigger can be a drug (medical or other), an other infection, or anything which weakens the immune system. Perhaps the most common trigger is overwork, stress and burnout. It seems that stress and burnout can weaken links between your consciousness and your body, which allows the EBV to play up. Some people may actually feel not properly alive, or not properly here in the present moment, or not grounded, or too much up in their heads, or even spaced out and up in the clouds. (It is possible that some people are not properly in their body anyway (eg because of past-life problems), and this allows the EBV to play up.) Whatever the cause of this depersonalisation, the solution is the triune energy and other remedies (often originally for Lyme) which put you back in your body, and rebuild the links weakened by overwork.

Colloidal gold and platinum help ground these remedies in your body and make them more effective. So colloidal gold and platinum are part of the new EBV treatment. There are a few remedies which stimulate the absorption of colloidal silica, so you would benefit from taking that as well, but it is optional.
